The position on use of the Koran and use of "I" hence set forth in the attached memorandum are the tenets which Little agreed with and which were at that time contrary to MUHAMMAD's teachings. However, it now appears that MUHAMMAD is now accepting these decisions.

[redacted] some basic changes in the teachings of the organization [redacted]

Among those changes are the following:

Prayer

[redacted] their daily prayers and prayers said at meetings of the organization must be specific Moslem prayers. Those prayers should be the prayers said by Moslems for centuries and should not be just prayers which are made up by Temple Ministers, which has been the practice in the past.

Names

[redacted] that members should take Moslem names rather than using "X names". This practice should be instituted especially among Ministers. [redacted] evidently Muhammad had been convinced that this would be a wise practice because in recent articles written by him and published in the Pittsburgh Courier, Muhammad has referred to his Ministers by their first names followed by Moslem names.

Making The Koran
Available to Members

[redacted] that members of the organization should be allowed to obtain copies of the Koran [redacted] many members have requested copies of the Koran as well as other Moslem literature.

[redacted] it appears that Little [redacted] convinced Muhammad that these practices should be put into effect [redacted] Little appears to be less dependent on Muhammad although he does not feel that there is any notion on the part of Little to break with Muhammad or attempt to control the organization, however, as previously stated, Little first accepted the suggested changes in the doctrines of the organization and then apparently convinced Muhammad of their value.

b7D [redacted]

In addition Little appears to make many less important day to day decisions on his own, on which he previously consulted Muhammad.

b7D [redacted] does not believe at this time that Little has any designs on Muhammad's position because he continues to speak highly of him and appears to believe sincerely that Muhammad is a messenger sent by allah, to save the Negro race.

b7D [redacted]

opinion, Little is the number one or number two man behind Muhammad and a very influential source in the organization.
